FRANKFURT 'INSULIN CITY'

The site at Frankfurt is Sanofi's center of insulin expertise and the largest insulin production site in the world. For this reason the site has coined the name 'Insulin City'.

Every aspect of the whole insulin chain is covered here, from research and development to active agent production and the manufacturing and distribution of the finished medication. Products are developed here in ultramodern, biotechnical production plants.

Distribution center - Frankfurt site

Sanofi is a world-leading healthcare company. More than 110,000 employees work in the service of health in over 100 countries worldwide. They research, develop and market therapeutic solutions with the aim of improving people's lives.

Frankfurt is the largest site and headquarters for Sanofi in Germany. At the Frankfurt site, Sanofi's pharmaceutical products are taken from initial research to production and distribution. There are 7,750 workers across research and development, production and manufacturing, as well as the administrative sector.

Sanofi is committed to the holistic care of people with diabetes - from diagnosis to an array of treatment options. Since 2006, the company has developed and produced its own insulin pens - a convenient and safe means of administering the vital hormone. Up to a million pens a day can be made on the cutting-edge production lines.

The Frankfurt site is one of five Sanofi research and development hubs across Europe, North America and Asia-Pacific.

DIABETES MEDICINES

Our comprehensive integrated portfolio is designed to directly target the needs of people living every day with diabetes

Oral glucose-lowering medicinal products are often introduced as a first-line treatment. This is followed by the addition of other oral glucose-lowering medicinal products and/or injectable treatments.¹⁻³
